

Amber Bishop joined WREC in 2018. Amber is a former litigator, WREC's General Counsel, and a Senior Reconstructionist.

In 2005 Amber received a degree in Physics, after being inducted into the Physics Honor Society. While working full time as a scientist at the CDC, she earned her Masters from Emory University. Amber went on to graduate Magna Cum Laude from Georgia State University College of Law. Joining WREC has allowed Amber to combine her loves of physics and the law.

She has completed more than 700 hours of crash reconstruction training and has investigated hundreds of collisions. Amber is fully accredited as a Traffic Accident Reconstructionist by the Accreditation Commission for Traffic Accident Reconstruction (ACTAR) and has been qualified by Courts across Georgia.
