

Carolyn Kelso is a mother and U.S. Marine Corps veteran who served nearly ten years on active duty as a legal administrator. She's the owner & operator of Betty Carry LLC., a certified instructor of the ALIVE Active Shooter Survival training program and a certified NRA instructor and basic range safety officer. A firearms training advocate, Carolyn maintains a patient and empathic mindset when working with those handling a firearm for the first time and those looking to improve their marksmanship skills. Carolyn's a Georgia private detective currently licensed with several private investigation agencies and works cases related to family law and workman's compensation. She holds both a MS in Health & Wellness and a MS in Holistic Nutrition from the American College of Healthcare Sciences, and a BS in Nutrition Science from Kaplan University. Her spare time focuses on family, friends, hiking, pets and writing poetry.

Sadly, active shooter/killer incidents are occurring more and more frequently across our nation. According to Scott A. Bonn, Ph.D., "alienation, anger and a feeling of powerlessness drive these killers to seek Control and Power." Michael Julian, the creator of ALIVE, shares that the way they regain control & power is by taking people's lives; killing the most amount of people in the shortest amount of time.

Betty Carry LLC is taking a grass-roots approach in making the ALIVE Active Shooter Survival training available to the public in order to give the individual citizens, their families, and business entities much-needed survival skills should they face an active shooter/killer. Communities trained on the 5-Steps of ALIVE not only adopt a better sense-of-safety but also send a strong message that they refuse to become statistics.
